Richard Stockford : The Knife You Make before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Knife You Make:

The Knife You Make is an introduction to the fascinating world of knife-making. It is an overview of terms, descriptions and techniques for the hobbyist which will lead the home craftsman through the completion of his or her first knife and present some of the myriad possibilities for the second.

About the Author Richard Stockford is a Maine native with a love of history and literature. A retired Chief of the Bangor (Maine) Police Department, he spends his time writing, and crafting handmade custom knives.
